Escort service eases coed fear on UCLA campus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sprawling UCLA campus, where soft lights and a sylvan environment traditionally have provided a setting for contemplation, is now giving rise to fear among coeds.

And university police have responded by establishing an all-night escort service of husky male students who are on call to walk the coeds safely from classes to residence

Every evening, more than 30 women phone the monthand-a-half-old UCLA Escort Service to ask for a walking companion, said investigator James Pembroke, the program's coordinator.

Even though crime on campus has decreased this year, Pembroke said, consciousness of mugging, robbery and rape has risen.

Other methods of providing coeds with security after dark were studied by the Student Legislative Council but rejected as unfeasible.

A proposal to place emergency call boxes around the campus was dropped as too expensive.

Besides, one observer noted, a person being attacked would have little opportunity to use an emergency phone.
The male escorts, it was decided, provided a more visible and effective deterrent. UCLA now has seven of the night walkers, each earning

But demand has already outstripped supply, Pembroke said, and he is scrambling to recruit more escorts. Three students, he said, have volunteered to join the force

Pembroke said there had been no marked increase in calls from women students after reports of the deaths of two young coeds who had been hitchhiking near the University of California at Santa Barbara and the disappearance of another hitchhiking woman from the same

'But that's what I'm waiting for, to see if there will be any correlation when we look at the (escort service) reports later," he said. Pembroke said he is trying to get the campus' four residence halls to establish their own inhouse escort services. And he's meeting with the Interfraternity Council to work out a system whereby male students could visit UCLA's 17 sorority houses each night as an escorts-inresidence in return for dinner.

Carter's tax rebate plan getting cold reception

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's $50-per-person tax rebate plan is getting a cold reception in Congress as a government report indicates the severe winter weather will cost each household $139 in added fuel costs.

"Heating bills will consume all of the tax rebate," Sen. Hubert Humphrey warned Charles Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, at a hearing of the Joint Economic Committee on Wednesday.

Humphrey released a Library of Congress study that estimated the extra fuel costs this winter will total $8.4 billion, or an average of $139 per household. The study also projected a possible wage loss of $1.6 billion because of plant shutdowns.

"If that's anywhere near right, it's an awful blow to the economy, Humphrey said.

Schultze said a special administration task force was trying to assess the economic damage caused by the weather. He conceded that the administration may have to increase the rebates or boost the two-year, $31.2-billion economic stimulus program in some other way to offset the weather's effects.

But Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told the House Banking Committee on Wednesday he saw no need to increase the package. While the weather "clearly makes the situation worse," the economy has performed "better than expected" in recent months, he said.

Blumenthal said he expects the Federal Reserve Board will cooperate in its money and interest rate policies with the Carter plan.

Butcher was in the White House as a broadcast newsman when Roosevelt delivered his first fireside chat over radio in 1933. For Carter's debut Wednesday night, Butcher was in his home in Santa Barbara, watching television.

"I notice he had a fireplace right handy," said Butcher with a chuckle.

He was interviewed by telephone. Indeed, the audience could see the fire as Carter sat in the library of the arry C. White House, dressed comfortably in sweater, tie and slacks.

Therein lay the difference between Roosevelt's first talk on March 12, 1933, and Carter's. Then, the audience could only hear Roosevelt's studied oratory and imagine the scene. On Wednesday, people across the land could see every Carter smile and every time he laced his fingers or touched his chin in thoughtful gesture.

14 more upstate counties ruled disaster areas

SACRAMENTO (AP) - President Carter has declared 14 Northern California counties disaster areas because of drought damage to livestock ranchers, according to unofficial reports.

The reports Wednesday were from the offices of California congressmen. But the governor's office said it hadn't received the customary confirmation telegram.

The President's action brings to 37 the number of California counties declared disaster areas for livestock. Twenty-three were listed in a declaration by President Ford before he left office.

Will sell gas, oil to ease shortages

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (AP) -Mexico will help the United States fight the energy crisis by selling 40 million cubic feet of gas a day to its northern neighbor at current interstate prices, American Embassy sources said Thursday.

Mexico will start the gas flowing to the United States Monday or Tuesday and will also provide 600,0000 barrels of crude oil daily, the sources

President Carter said Wednesday night that Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo had offered to help the United States in the crisis caused by the extreme cold winter, which has caused shutdowns in industry because of fuel shortages.

The rates Mexico will charge for natural gas will vary from $1.90 to $2.15 per British Thermal Unit (B-TU), the embassy sources said.

They said there was no fixed price for the crude oil but said it would probably be the same price paid for the limited exports Mexico now makes to the United States. That price is $12.65 per barrel landed in Gulf of Mexico ports.

Mexico also offerd to sell to the United States an additional two million barrels of crude a day if American ships can be found to transport the oil. The planned 600,000 barrels daily will be transported in Mexican ships or ships rented by the Mexican government, the sources

Mexico has been selling about 100,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States since important new oilfields began producing in the Chiapas and Tampico areas 18 months ago.

The natural gas would be supplied from the Nuevo Laredo and Reynosa fields on the Mexican side of the Texas border. The sources said the gas would be delivered to McAllen, Tex., for distribution by the Texas Eastern Transmission Co.

PB Staff Writer

A 25-year-old Fontana man burned to death Wednesday night while trapped inside the cab of his threequarter-ton pickup truck which tipped over and burned on Chino Avenue west of Oaks Street in Chino.

The San Bernardino County Coroner's Office identified the dead man as Humberto C. Juarez Jr. Deputy Coroner Harvey Castro said Juarez' parents live in Chino, and that Juarez had been working as a havbucker for Chino dairy farms.

Chino police officers who investigated the accident said it appeared the truck, which had a loading boom on the bed, apparently struck the rear left side of a parked car, skidded sideways, tipped over on its side and burst into flames.

There were three gas tanks on the truck. One ruptured. It exploded, officers said. The flames trapped Juarez in the cab.

State health chief clears hospital; 'nothing to hide' the decision to use electric shock

By VONNE ROBERTSON

PB Staff Writer "Pacific State Hospital has nothing to hide from the outside world," said Jerome Lackner, state health director from Sacramento, after completing a tour of the facility Wednesday afternoon.

The hospital is a model. We do not have here malice or people being mistreated. What we have seen is a human care element, you can't buy this type of concern and love,

The state health official's visit to the Pomona hospital for the mentally retarded followed an announcement earlier in the week by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors that some patients were being mistreated and subjected to electric shock by "cattle prods." Lackner inspected the medical records of the 14 residents - all described as severely self-abusing involved in the behavioral modification program which uses electric stimulus as a method of interrupting destructive behavior.

This electrical shock program is the least dangerous method of dealing with these specific persons in terms of the alternatives available such as physical restraints or chemical sedation," said the state

Upon arriving from Sacramento, Lackner said that much of the misinformation given to the public was because "the media is not personally involved" and added "I feel the press must be involved to understand the situation fully."

He then immediately laid down his "ground rules" which limited the coverage to one television station

Lackner's announcement was met by outcries from every major television station in the Southland present to cover the story. Cameramen, after saying they did not have the necessary equipment with them to do a tape which could be shared promptly, were allowed brief interviews prior to Lackner's inspection of the wards.

The inspection team which spent more than four hours at the hospital was comprised of one television newsman, two journalists, one psy chologist each from USC and UCLA a deputy district attorney and his aide, two members of the Hospital Advisory Board (volunteer lay persons), representatives of the county health department, a residents right's advocate, a Catholic priest

Lackner defended the use of the small electric stimulators in dealing with specific patients. "This type of therapy is hard to monitor, but appears to be the best possible therapy presently known to treat and change the behavior of patients who are self-destructive. "We are dealing, in one case, with a young woman who has already torn out one of her eyes," Lackner said. We must protect the other eye. "Another young woman has smashed her head against the floor so hard she has twice fractured her skull Lackner added that the patients needed specific care, but, at the same time, it was necessary to consider if some programs are cultural-

Some therapy is less effective,

Lackner. "But here we have patients who do not respond to these culturally accepted methods of treatment. 'Of course, we could let them 'do their own thing,' like tear off their own flesh, gouge out eyes or beat themselves constantly. "Or we can put them in total restraints and tie them to a bed constantly, restrain them by constant staff force or drug them heavily. These methods may protect them, but they don't change behavior. The shock treatment often does change behavior and allows the person a mobility not otherwise available," Lackner explained.

'This doesn't mean that every time it's used, it is the appropriate treatment, and it must be carefully used," he added.

Hospital personnel explained that was a team study decision and it was resorted to after all other methods of treatment had been exhausted. The inspection team met several residents who have been improved by the use of the therapy.

Of the 1,700 residents at the hospital, only 14 are involved in the electric shock program.

Transportation plan for San Bernardino County is revealed

PB Staff Writer

A plan to provide a total picture of transportation planning in San Bernardino County was revealed Wednesday by Wes McDaniel, executive director of San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) to directors of the San Bernardino Transportation Commission.

The plan detailed the schedule and the responsibilities for both the commission and SANBAG directors.

The same city and county officials comprise both entities, but have separate responsibilities in county transportation planning.

McDaniel's plan would mesh information but not necessarily respon-

McDaniel said it would create "a clearinghouse for all local authorities to forward information on major transportation systems, local transit projects, safety, beautification, street reconstruction and other special projects." Although the commission does not have authority over these areas nor does it normally fund such projects, McDaniel pointed out that such an information system would give the total view that is now lacking.

"We want to set up a system where all (government) engineers and planners will forward one copy of their projects to the commission. It becomes a one-stop bureaucratic service to all local governments," McDaniel said. "If the project needs to be forwarded to Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), the state or the federal government, the commission will

"It's a means of tying this thing together so it will really mean something," he added.

The cities now have to make several copies of various projects and applications for different governmental agencies.

Factfinding requested

Bonita salary talks still unsettled

By BOB SWETNAM PB Staff Writer

Labor problems continue to plague the Bonita Unified School District.

Schools Supt. James Johnson Wednesday informed the school board that salary negotiations now have broken down with classified (non-teaching) employes in the district, and that factfinding has been requested.

This is the step which follows impasse in negotiations under California's new collective bargaining law for public employes

While many valley districts have had problems settling employe con-tracts under the new law, Bonita seems to be having the lion's share.

During more than seven months of negotiations with the Bonita Unified Teachers Association, district offices have been picketed several times, there has been disagreement on almost every substantive issue in the contract talks, two unfair labor practice charges have been filed against the teachers by the district, and an impasse has been declared in negotiations.

Now janitors, librarians, cooks and other noncertificated personnel must be added to to the list of employes who have thus far been unable to reach a contract agreement.

Johnson explained that the status of negotiations between both the BUTA and the CSEA are now at a standstill and will soon be going into the factfinding stage.

In factfinding, a three-person panel under the direction of the Education Employment Relations Board will attempt to discover what the facts in an employe dispute are, and how much money the district has to spend for increased salaries.

In the case of classified employes, Johnson expects factfinding to result in a speedy agreement.

A tentative agreement with classified employes had easily been reached last August, but the agree-ment stipulated that if the district received more funds than had been budgeted the salary issue could be re-opened.

Later in the year, the district did receive more revenues, thus paving the way for the present disagreement on how much money is available for increased salaries.

Johnson explained that in most cases where classified employes and other school districts have resorted to factfinding, "an agreement has usually been reached in a matter of a few short days."
Prospects for a solution to the dispute with teachers, however, was not as optimistic.

Explaining the reasons for the administration's recent action in which two charges of unfair labor practices were filed against the BUTA, Johnson revealed that a solution to those issues could "possibly take months to resolve and maybe even as much as a year.' Johnson said the action had been taken in an attempt to get a definitive ruling on certain aspects of California's new collective bargaining law.

He said the main disagreement between the teachers and the administration centered on what issues could be included in contract talks.

The teachers believe certain things such as summer school policy, academic freedom, nondiscrimination and a host of other items were within the scope of the

The school district maintains such issues are outside the scope of the law and therefore cannot be discus-

Johnson believes the unfair labor practice charges against the teachers will lead to a landmark ruling on what issues may be discussed at the bargaining table. Thus far there has apparently been no ruling by either the EERB or a court to that effect.

Johnson said the administration's action will help to clarify what is meant by the language of the law. He added that any such ruling would have an impact far beyond the confines of the Bonita district.

"A ruling by the EERB on these issues will set a precedent," he said. No matter how the ruling may go it will be beneficial to both those in and outside the district. If these questions are resolved it will make agreements much easier to come by.

President asks for sacrifices

Congress moves on Carter tax, jobs proposals

is moving ahead on Carter administration proposals to create jobs and cut taxes after hearing the President appeal for sacrifices by the people and promise that the government will join in giving up comforts once taken for granted.

In his first nationwide address since his inauguration two weeks ago, Carter, clad in beige cardigan sweater and seated before a fireplace in the White House library, evoked memories of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who made fireside chats over radio during the Depression and World War II.

Carter's low-key address mixed promises of action on the nation's most pressing problems with calls for sacrifice as the only path to longrange solutions.

He appealed to Congress for cooperation and made clear his intention to cultivate direct communication with the American peo-

And even as Congress labored over his economic proposals, Carter promised to send it by the end of the week his request for authority to reorganize executive departments and agencies of the government.

Carter outlined his initial proposais aimed at solving immediate problems, from the natural gas shortage brought on by extreme winter weather to the problems of unemployment and a stagnant economy.

But the strongest message Carter had for the American people was the need for personal sacrifice to solve national problems - sacrifice on the part of government officials as well as the people.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, assistant Senate Majority leader, described Carter's speech as "a recognition that the real power in the country lies in the hands of the people.

House Majority Leader James Wright, D-Tex., said the most impor-

his call for cooperation of the American people. He obviously trusts the American people, and this I'm convinced will inspire their reciprocal trust."

Just before addressing the nation, Carter signed an emergency measure passed by Congress that gives him authority to shift natural gas supplies to the areas of the nation hardest hit by extreme winter weather.

And even as he spoke natural gas began moving eastward from California and the Paciic Northwest.

While congratulating Congress for quick action on the natural gas bill, he emphasized that a long-range solution still must be sought. He has promised to send Congress a comprehensive plan by April 20.

'We must face the fact that our energy shortage is permanent. There is no way we can solve it quickly," he

"Our program will emphasize conservation," the President said. Later, he emphasized the point, saying: "in my brief time in office, I have learned that there are many things that a President cannot do.

There is no energy policy we can develop that would do more good than voluntary conservation." Carter said all the sacrifices would not come from private citizens: We have eliminated expensive and unnecessary luxuries, such as door-to-door limousine service for many top officials, including all members of the White House staff. Government officials can't be sensitive to your problems if we are living like royalty here in Washington." In addition to setting a tone for his administration that emphasized the need for sacrifice, Carter announced these specific moves:

-He will reduce the number of government regulations and "make sure that those that are written are in plain English. Whenever a regulation is issued, it will carry the author's name.'

-Changes in the tax laws to provide a "fairer, simpler system," are being worked out with the appropriate members of Congress. We will outline the study procedures soon, and, after consultation with many American citizens and with the Congress, we will present a program of comprehensive tax reform before the end of this

-The secretaries of labor and health, education and welfare are reviewing the welfare system, planning a "complete overhaul ... which will minimize abuse, strengthen the family - and emphasize adequate support for those who cannot work, and training and jobs for those who can." An initial report is due in 90

-He also pledged to "support the Congress in its efforts to dea! with the widespread fraud and abuse of our Medicaid system.

-He promised that he and his Cabinet would conduct "an open administration" with frequent press conferences and reports to the people. He also promised to appear on network radio to "accept your phone calls and answer the questions that are on your mind."

-He said, "Soon I will put a ceiling on the number of people employed by federal government agencies so we can bring the growth of government under control.

-He also promised that his administration will "express our concern about violations of human rights ... without upsetting our efforts toward friendly relations with other countries.

Many proposals in the speech, which lasted just over 20 minutes, were restatements of stands taken during the presidential campaign.

There are many other areas of domestic policy - housing, health, crime, education, agriculture, and others - that will concern me as President but which I do not have time to discuss tonight," he said. He said he would discuss foreign policy in another fireside chat.

Four robbers, armed with pistols and a switchblade knife, took the wallets of the bartender, waitress and five customers late Wednesday night at the Beef 'N' Barrel restaurant at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

Shooting of woman probed

Ontario police are investigating the shooting of an Ontario woman who admitted herself to San Antonio Com-munity Hospital in Upland Wednesday with a gunshot wound in the left shoulder and back.

Gwendolyn Brouchard, also known as Gwendolyn Wilson, of 1110 E. La Deney Court, was listed in good condition today.

Police said it appeared a 45-caliber bullet had entered her left shoulder and exited from her back. Investigators described the victim as "very uncooperative" at the hospital and said only that a man named "Joe" shot at her 10 times in her apartment. She refused to give any further description of the man. Police later entered the apartment and found numerous guns, including a 45-caliber automatic pistol with one round still in the chamber.

Officers said they also found evidence that other shots - possibly nine or 10 - had been fired from different guns inside the building.

Pay hikes OK'd for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - Automatic pay raises of nearly $13,000 a year for members of Congress and other top government officials are a step closer to reality.

The Senate voted 56 to 42 Wednesday to kill an amendment by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., to block the increases, which would boost the lawmakers' pay from $44,600 to

The hikes for Congress, federal judges, Cabinet members and other top government officials were recommended by former President Gerald Ford and supported by President Carter. They take effect automatically Feb. 20 unless the Senate or House intervenes.

Nuclear trade mystifies allies

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. allies in Europe and Japan are promising to back President Carter's efforts to slow world trade in nuclear power and weapons, but they're mystified by how it's all going to be done.

This emerged from a survey of opinion among diplomats of key nations among the six visited by Vice President Walter F. Mondale during his whirlwind round-the-world swing.

Mondale's mission to Brussels, Rome, London, Paris and Tokyo was to emphasize a fundamental continuity in Carter's approach to U.S. alliances and objectives.

Burns to back growth policies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board said today his moneymanaging agency will support policies to speed economic growth and reduce unemployment in 1977.

Burns made no specific comment in his prepared remarks for the House Banking Committee on President Carter's proposed $50 tax rebate plan, but he said the Federal Reserve Board recognizes "our nation needs to make progress during 1977 in creating more jobs and in ex-panding our industrial capacity."

Rep. Jim Lloyd discusses his goals

By TERRY WADE Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON - Becoming a more effective congressman is the driving force behind Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th.

Dist., as he begins his second term. Lloyd during his first term repeatedly lamented his inability to break through the seniority system's bias toward freshmen. The former West Covina mayor believes he has more to offer the Armed Service Committee he serves on than has

Lloyd believes he knows as much about fighter planes and bombers as any member in Congress. He is a former Navy pilot and in his two years in the House has either flown or flown in most of the new military planes.

In a wide-ranging interview just before the 95th Congress Lloyd discussed his goals and the impending

Most of the interview follows. QUESTION: Congressman, what are your goals for the new session? ANSWER: "One, I intend to become an effective legislator in the area of what I call the old aero-space industry, aviation, some weapons, computers and

QUESTION: How do you plan on becoming more effec-

ANSWER: "I want to be knowledgable and I'm going to do things that have a sort of show and tell quality, such as starting to check out the DC-10 and flying the P-34.

QUESTION: What do you hope to gain from that? ANSWER: "I want to participate in the decision making process . . . I want to get on the conference committees and I'm going to start lobbying for that. I have to show people I'm more than a quick press release.

QUESTION: In what other areas will you be working? ANSWER: "One of the projects that I've assigned myself is that I want the American people to perceive the House of Representatives for what it is. There are a lot of human foibles out of 435 people . . . some people are very good, some people - not so good, but not all Congress is QUESTION: How do you feel about the proposed economics programs that have been mentioned (this interview was done prior to the current specific Carter proposals), including tax rebates?

ANSWER: "I'm not nearly as excited about another tax rebate as I am about a jobs bill and I would like to have a proviso in the jobs bill not only for those who are currently unemployed, but I would like to see some sort of program whereby young people, ages 17 and 18, would have the opportunity to work."

QUESTION: Why do you dislike tax rebates?

ANSWER: "One thing that was proven the last time is that there is a tendency for people to throw their money into savings accounts. On the other hand a rebate of $50 or so is not something that's likely to be put into a savings

QUESTION: Is there anything Congress can do to give people confidence in the economy so they will spend in-

ANSWER: "I think that one of the things that you have to do is to give them the feeling that the country is not going into another recession. Once we establish that in their minds then it doesn't make any difference what we do they will then be in a bullish attitude to go forth.'

QUESTION: President Carter, as a candidate, said he would cut the defense budget. What do you think of that?

ANSWER: "You can cut it, but then you have to say what programs are going to be cut. Beware of someone who just makes an arbitrary swipe at it, of a percentage factor. You can't take all of it and cut it a percentage factor, because what you do is weaken programs and make them totally unreasonable."

QUESTION: Do you still support production of the B-1

ANSWER: "It's now $95.1 million (per plane) and I think they may be pricing themselves out of the market. There arrives a point when it's no longer financially feasible to support that weapons system . . . I'd probably argue for say $100 million (per plane). If they go past $100 million I'd have to get off. I'd have to review the system."

QUESTION: There has been a great deal of criticism of our arms sales to foreign countries. How do you feel about

ANSWER: "If they don't buy it from us they'll buy it elsewhere. Once I establish that I would just as soon they buy it from us for a lot of reasons. We have much better control. If you buy an F-14 from us you have to do business with us, because you can't support it alone. The public has to understand that these things are so complex that every system on one of those F-14s has to be checked by an ex-

QUESTION: What is your position on national health in surance?

ANSWER: "Everybody is for some form of health insurance. I have said I am for the young, the old, the catastrophic, coupled with listening to the medical profession . . . if you can bring those people into the decision making process you can make it work."

QUESTION: What is your position of common-site

ANSWER: "I know one thing, it is going to pass. I think as a pragmatist we must put in some protections so that we don't destroy the small contractor.

Measles immunization clinic to be held in Pomona

A measles immunization clinic will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona.

A serious measles outbreak in Los Angeles County has prompted health officials to schedule immunization programs throughout the Southland. At the first clinic in Pomona last Saturday, 624 children were immunized. The measles shots are available free of charge to all children 6 months to 18 years. The children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Previous immunization records should be brought to the clinic.

According to Dr. Annabel Teberg, measles can be prevented with the live measles vaccine now used. The 10-day, red measles can cause severe illness and permanent health

Children who received a killed measles vaccine prior to 1968 are urged to receive a booster dose with the newer live measles vaccine, Dr. Teberg said.

She added that if a parent is unsure which vaccine a child has had, it is safer to give the child a booster shot. Children should not receive a shot if they have a high fever, are allergic to eggs, chicken feathers or neomycin, have tuberculosis, cancer, immunity problems or are taking cortisone medication. Pregnant females should not receive a

Students to restore bungalow

Four students from the Pomona Unified School District's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program will be working Saturdays now through June providing painting and exterior modifications for the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo kindergarten bungalow.

The students will work under the supervision of qualified volunteers.

June Hyman, who is heading the drive to save the building, says that while the student and volunteer labor will help defray cost of the restoration, contributions are still needed for roofing materials and to pay for the cost of internal work still to be done.

The bungalow is the oldest school building in Pomona. It was designed by former Pomona school teacher Barbara Greenwood before she went on to a distinguished teaching career at UCLA. The building is now located on the Casa Primera property at Park and McKinley ave-

She believes that the college should be "retained for the community" rather than be controlled by state regulations.

Because she does not have an outside job, Mrs. Barnes feels she can devote more time to the college. Her two children are both students at MSAC.

with five children. Whatever time she has left she wants to spend on the board of trustees of the Mt. San Antonio College District.

A 36-year-old pre-law student at the college, Mrs. Hayhurst has spent the past 22 years in a wheelchair, a victim of polio. But she is quite involved in student affairs, currently serving as a vice president of the student body.

She wants to improve communications between the trustees and the students.

She said one of the reasons she is a candidate is because the trustees have never had a woman on the board, and it's time to bring a woman's point of view to the board.

She wants the trustees to place more accent on the MSAC remedial program so that students can get more stimulus and interest from it.

Unemployed fathers fight vandalism?

Proposal suggested to L.A. supervisors

By BOB NAGEY PB Staff Writer

A proposal to use unemployed fathers in the fight against vandalism apparently has caught the imagination of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

Under a plan suggested by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, the fathers would be used to patrol school grounds in their communities at night in teams.

The supervisors gave unanimous approval to Hahn's recommendation that Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. be asked to establish a pilot program in the county.

Under the proposal the fathers, now enrolled in the Work Incentive Program administered by the state Department of Employment, would be assigned to patrol duty in exchange for welfare checks.

The fathers would patrol their assigned areas in teams and would have access to hot-line telephone service to

Hahn said that until the fathers find full-time employment they could earn their financial support by fighting

He said there were about 12,000 fathers throughout the county, including several hundred in the valley, who receive welfare under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children-Unemployed Parent Program.

"Most of these persons are enrolled in the incentive program," he explained. "But because of the depressed labor market only a small number have been placed into jobs. Therefore, there is a large pool of unemployed persons with the potential for participating in a special project to prevent school vandalism.

Hahn said vandalism has been soaring at an alarming rate. He presented figures showing that during the past fiscal year there were 27,000 incidents of vandalism in the county's schools alone.

Destruction caused by vandalism in those cases was estimated at more than $5 million.

Via Verde C.C. sold, may be going public

By BOB SWETNAM PB Staff Writer

The Via Verde Country Club, an exclusive private golf course in San Dimas, has been sold to a Pacific Palisades golfing firm for an undisclosed price. The sale was announced by Al Stilley, president of the Via Verde Country Club, a subsidiary of Pauley Petroleum of Los Angeles which has extensive land holdings in the Via Verde area, and David Price, chairman of the board of Resort Properties, Ltd., the owners of 14 golf courses in California.

Rumors had been circulating for weeks that a sale of the country club was imminent and that it would soon be going public. The rumors. however, were continuously denied until the actual approval of the sale which a Resort Properties spokesman said "was not finalized until Tuesday afternoon.

The spokesman denied reports the new owners plan to convert the golf course into a public course.

One of the casualties in the sale was golf course manager Joe Cartright. He lost his job shortly after the sale was made.

Cartright, reached for comment on his dismissal, said, "I'd rather not talk about it . . . as of now I don't work here. Cartright said he had assumed he would have been included in any sale agreement that was reached.

'I guess I'll be looking for a new job now," he said. "I've been the manager here for five years, but I don't think I'll have any trouble finding another place somewhere. I was looking for a job when I first came here . . . so I guess now will be

Kaiser layoffs hit 600 for month of January

By ED PRATHER PB Staff Writer

A slowdown in the number of large construction projects on the West Coast and competition from foreign steel are blamed for continuing layoffs at the Kaiser Steel Corp. plant in Fon-

A spokesman for the company said about 600 employes were laid off during January.

Since last summer the number of employes at the Fontana plant has dropped from 8,500 to only 6,100 at present.

'The cause is simply a lack of demand for product. We're largely oriented toward major construction and energy construction projects. Those just don't seem to be coming out of the economy right now," said Ray Robinson.

He said the company was also under "pressure from low-priced steel coming in from other countries."

Robinson said he didn't want to speculate whether more layoffs would be necessary.

In an unrelated matter, Robinson confirmed that fines totaling $4,750 had been levied against Kaiser Steel in connection with 19 violations of air quality standards brought against the plant by the San Bernardino County District At-

More than 500 similar charges are pending against the plant, with arraignment set for later this month in Fontana.

Those charges are separate from the more than 1,000 air quality violations found by the California Air Resources Board investigation of the plant last September.

ARB Chairman Tom Quinn has promised to take Kaiser Steel to court in an effort to speed up the company's cleanup efforts.

The plant is said to be the single largest stationary source of air pollution in the South Coast

Quinn last week said, however, that the state would not seek to collect more than $15 million in fines for which the company would be liable due to the viola-

Kaiser officials have repeatedly charged the company is doing everything feasible to reduce emissions and that if forced to meet strict standards designed for other types of industry, even more job losses could be caused.

James Good, an attorney for Kaiser, recently said the company is committed to a $150 million clean-up program over the next three years.

Welfare checks will be delayed

Monthly checks issued to about 35,000 welfare recipients in the valley may be a little late from now

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has instructed Auditor-Controller Mark Bloodgood to stagger issuance of the checks to take the pressure off places which have to cash them.

Up to now, the checks have gone out on the first and 15th of each month to recipients in the valley as well as the rest of Los Angeles County. Approximately 400,000 checks amounting to about $69 million a month are mailed out at those times.

But when they are presented for cashing, the checks create long lines at the banks and other places. The supervisors feel that if the checks are mailed out daily throughout the month, much of the congestion will be eased.

The system has to work

The speed at which the Pomona City Council this week approved a proposal to beef up the city's police forces as a means of fighting crime gives hope that in an emergency situation the elected officials are capable of responding to public demand. But, what took the council so long to act?

This newspaper more than a year ago called for the war on crime that the council has finally approved. What's more, more than 2,000 of our readers who responded affirmatively to our war on crime editorial should have constituted a mandate to the city fathers.

Could it be, however, that since the city elections are only a month off that this was the motivation that brought prompt city action in a matter of extreme public concern.

We would prefer to think that this is not the case but there is pause to wonder.

At any rate, citizens can applaud the council action and have some assurance that greater police activity as a result of placing more uniformed personnel in the field, will eventually make our streets and homes safer for everyone

We cannot expect the police to work miracles overnight in such a complex problem. Indeed, it will require total community involvement if we are to reduce the incidence of crime.

Residents must be willing to assist the police department in its efforts. The reserve police force that Chief Richard Slaght proposes to train will need men and women who are willing to take the training that is required and thereafter serve with the regulars. Chief Slaght's communication to the city council recommending a special task force to fight major crime emphasized that the public needs to realize that just increasing police manpower is not the total answer to the problem of crime here or anywhere else. The chief then echoed the sentiments of just about everyone when he declared: "In my professional opinion, to effectively control crime, the entire criminal justice system must accept and carry out its individual sworn duties."

He went on to state that "the judiciary must be encouraged to take a hard line against criminals in our community, the probation officials must be encouraged to monitor more closely those criminals under their supervision, and the parole officials must be held to answer for those persons released from prisons who return to our community and, as statistics indicate, re-enter the profession of

What the chief is saying, in essence, is that the police can arrest the criminals, but whether the criminals go to jail depends on the rest of the system.

Good fuel news

It will do little for the immediate warmth of Americans shivering through the worst winter in living memory and worst fuel shortage in the country's history, but the outlook for oil and natural gas supplies in 1977 is bright, says World Oil.

A marked acceleration in U.S. drilling which negan in 1974 in response to "improved oil and gas prices" is expected to continue this year, says the energy industry publication.

Based on an analysis of operators' plans and industry capability, it predicts 1977 drilling of 42,624 wells and 198.9 million feet of hole - up 5.2 per cent and 5.7 per cent respectively over last year's totals.

Overall, more wells should be completed in 1977 than in any year since 1964, and footage drilled should establish an 18-year record. Compared to 1973, this year's expectations are "phenomenal." representing an increase of 63.4 per cent in wells and 48.2 per cent in footage.

Internationally, there will be the same stepped-up activity. In Canada, "enlightenment of Canadian politicans and attendant boosts in incentives" have precipitated an unprecedented drilling boom, reports World Oil. In Latin America, Africa, the North Sea, the Middle East and Far East - almost everywhere except Indonesia - drilling and production increases are expected.

This is good news for the short-term future — the matter of the next few years or perhaps even the next few decades. Eventually, of course, the world will begin running out of its oil and natural gas. (Domestic drilling footages are an indication that we are having to go deeper and deeper to find the stuff in this country.)

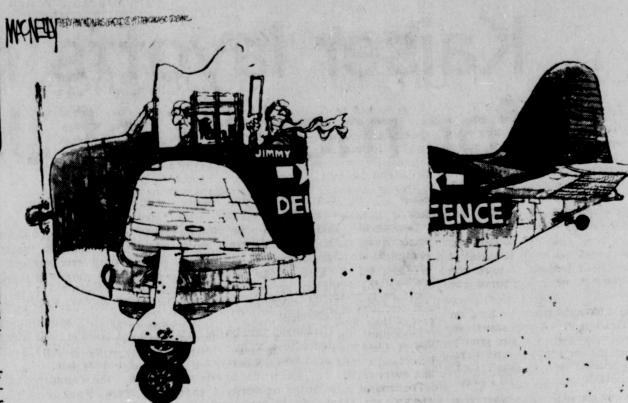

Long before we run out of oil and natural gas. they will either become so prohibitively expensive or so valuable as sources of chemicals that we will no longer be able to burn them in the vast quantities we do today.

This is something we had better begin thinking about before we go through many more winters like the present one.

The public forum Courts of interpretation

Dear Editor:

I believe a few points brought up in the letter published from Arthur Wilkins in the PB a few days back calls for some comments. He alludes to the supporters of the death penalty as having little regard for the value of human life. Personally, I think the life of a law abiding citizen such as the Pomona mechanic who was killed in west Pomona or the home mechanic in northwest Pomona who was shot for no reason at all is just as valuable - in fact more so - as that of a person who has shown no regard or respect for human life in particular or law in general.

This latter type of being must and should be removed from society be it by execution or sentencing to life without parole. As the law now stands, a life termer is eligible for parole in some seven years or so. There should be no way they could again circulate in society.

Another reference he makes is that ours is a nation "of laws and not people." I think that President Lincoln described it much better when he called it a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people." Ours is a nation of laws granted; some think, with merit, too many laws. It is this condition that has turned our courts into courts of interpretation rather than courts of justice. Justice being a matter of which side has an attorney with superior persuasive powers or knowledge of legal technicalities. Ours is a nation of people and it will be the will of the people that will ul-timately prevail — for better or for

A man worth keeping

Dear Editor:

Recently the Progress Bulletin printed a feature story on the principal of the Park Avenue Continuation High School.

Your story described a man very much concerned about his students and interested in their success. The story further presented a man of rare insight and of inestimable value to our community and our school

I am certain that such individuals are numerous throughout our school system but never receive the recognition they so richly deserve. It appears that the only satisfaction these individuals obtain is the accomplishments which their students realize. We have charged these people with a great responsibility, but seldom do we tender the appreciation they have earned.

It is distressing to learn that the subject of your article, Charles Fleenor, intends to leave this community. Can we afford to lose him? Has anyone endeavored to induce him to stay? I sincerely hope so, because his leaving will make Pomona and those students that C.L. Bryant much poorer.

Record privacy

By EARL G. WATERS

One result of the computer development has been to spur the quest of bureaucrats for information concerning citizens. Because of the ease of storage in computer banks droves of government workers are kept busy as bees gathering huge quantities of highly personal data for their hives. Whether all the information collected is essential to government or even put to any reasonable usage, it nevertheless becomes part of the "public record" and may be opened to public inspection under the Freedom of Information Act or similar laws of the various

It presents a serious threat to unwarranted invasions of personal privacy. To protect against this Congress enacted the Federal Privacy Act in 1974. California attempted to follow suit in 1975 and 1976 but both efforts were aborted by veto of Gov. Jerry

While Brown made his vetoes strictly on the contention of added cost to the state such attempts at safeguarding privacy, unless carefully drafted, run the risk of being counterproductive by affording agencies the secrecy which the Freedom of Information laws have sought to overcome.

Examining these issues Guy J. Sternal, an editor of the University of Pacific Law Review. seeks a means to accommodate "the competing interests of informational privacy and public access" stating that neither "should be accorded a preferential position which unnecessarily limits one right in favor of the other." Sternal finds inadequacies in present law and in court decisions in both directions. Neither does he feel that the proposals vetoed last year would have provided the privacy protection desired. He observes that had the bill authored by Sen. David Roberti passed it would have "afforded considerably less additional protection than that provided by the Federal Privacy Act."

He is particularly critical of the "permissive" language of the Public Records Act holding that there is "no statutory duty incumbent upon governmental agencies as custodians of this information to protect the data from public access where privacy is threatened."

Referring to court decisions on the question of the balance of public interest versus individual privacy he observes that the courts have tended to an "all or nothing" approach.

Sternal believes the "application of selective disclosure" by governmental agencies clearly improper "where a public record or a mandatorily disclosable record is involved.'

He advances a proposed amendment to this state's Public Records Act which appears to recognize the proclivity of bureaucrats to hide records on the flimsiest of excuses. What he proposes merits consideration as a possible solution to the conflict which would satisfy the need for access to records while protecting personal data the disclosure of which is not essential to the "public's need to know. In essence what he proposes is that where records contain information which has been made confidential by law the agency in charge shall have the duty of deleting the data which causes it to be exempt thereby making the remainder open to inspection. He also would give the courts authority in any action over records to examine them and order deletions to make the material releasable.

Coffee shortage contrived

WASHINGTON - The Great Coffee Shortage, according to the statistical evidence, isn't nearly as dire as the coffee producers claim. On the contrary, the statistics indicate that the shortage has been contrived to justify a boost in coffee

The State Dept., meanwhile, has been quietly circumventing congressional efforts to reduce the huge profits of the foreign coffee producers. The department looks upon the extra profits as a form of foreign aid, insiders explain. Brazil is the biggest recipient of the coffee windfall but draws no foreign aid from the United States. The State Dept., therefore, would like Brazilians to collect more for their coffee in order to keep the country stable.

For the record, a spokesman denied that the State Dept. favors higher coffee prices. "The coffee producers will suffer later," he predicted, "for the high prices."

A pound of coffee, which cost about $1.30 at the store 18 months ago, now sells for around $3. Enraged consumers are howling. Coffee boycotts are being organized. But the coffee magnates claim, with a shrugging of shoulders, that a 1975 Brazilian frost caused the prices to skyrocket.

Yet Brazil has made a remarkable recovery. Despite the frost damage, the Brazilians managed to export a million more bags of coffee in 1976 than in 1975. World coffee exports reached 58 million bags in 1976, the second highest figure of all time.

Congressional investigators suspect, therefore, that the coffee cartel is merely imitating the oil cartel and is putting the squeeze on the coffee consumers. Rep. Fred Richmond, D.-N.Y., told us that coffee-drinking Americans will pay the coffee cartel almost $6 billion a year if prices remain at the present level. That's more than double the national coffee bill for 1975.

Tight market monopolies by a few large coffee retailers, according to congressional studies, are contributing to higher coffee prices. The Big Two - General Foods and Proctor and Gambi of the U.S. coffee market.

The Federal Trade Commission has charged a General Food subsidiary, Maxwell House, with illegal coffee pricing practices. According to the allegations, General Foods cut prices below cost to eliminate competition.

Footnote: Two New York congressmen, Fred Richmond and Ben Rosenthal, both Democrats, will hold hearings on coffee pricing beginning February 22. Meanwhile, Richmond plans to push for a 50 per-cent decrease in coffee consumption. General Foods had no spokesman available at press time.
GOVERNMENT BURGLARIES

- Startling new evidence has come to light that the government hasn't limited its burglaries to socialists and radicals. No less than the former Navy chief, Adm. Arleigh Burke, is convinced that government gumshoes, probably CIA burglars, broke into his private office and stole some important personal documents

There is evidence to support his suspicion that even the nation's most prominent citizens may have been the victims of government tactics which were believed aimed at only left-wing extremists. For Burke recently discovered that the missing documents had turned up in a secret file of the Naval Investigations Ser-

These documents included a raw transcript of a long interview that the admiral had granted in August 1963 to a Greek newsman, Elias Demetracopoulos. In the interview, Burke bluntly declared that the armed forces had nothing to do with the Bay of Pigs disaster. He implied that the CIA was solely to blame for the fiasco. Only Burke, his secretary and Demetracopoulos knew of the interview before it was published in October 1963. And none of them released the raw transcript, which was edited in Burke's own handwriting. It was a copy of this raw transcript, complete with Burke's handwritten remarks, that mysteriously turned up in the Navy file. Notations on the file indicate that the Navy was so worried about someone getting wind of the heist that all but six copies of the Burke papers were destroyed. Burke, who received the prestigious Medal of Freedom from President Ford last month, is upset about the apparent burglary. It occurred after he had left the Navy but was emerging as the most articulate conservative critic of the Kennedy administration's military

After conferring with his lawyers, he said: "Regretfully, the only conclusion we reached is that . . . an unauthorized and illegal entry took place in my private office" in Washington.

Our sources have told us that the Navy originally got the sensitive Burke papers "from another agen-cy." The former admiral told us that while it is "only a guess," believes the "other agency" is the

Our man in Washington Controlling the arms race

By TERRY WADE

PB Washington writer

WASHINGTON - After receiving the Democratic presidential nomina tion last July Jimmy Carter told the delegates assembled there in New York "we should make our major investments in people, not in buildings and weapons.

During the second presidential debate Mr. Carter referred to the United States as "the arms merchants of the whole world.'

Jimmy Carter, as a candidate, lamented the sales of "$10- to $12billion worth of arms overseas to countries which quite often use these arms to fight each other."

As president Mr. Carter will no doubt still deplore our position, as we all do, as the "arms merchants of the whole world," but he will be faced with the real problem in his new

Sure it is easy to criticize supplying the weapons that threaten the stability of the world. Realistically it isn't quite as simple as a flick of the presidential wand to start spending that $12 billion we now use to send weapons overseas on human needs. And, even if we could stop the arms sales immediately it would probably do no good, as far as promoting world peace.

In fact, stopping our weapons out-put might make the world less stable. A former Navy pilot and se-cond term member of the House Armed Services committee, in a recent interview, placed the problem in perspective.

'If they don't buy it from us they'll buy it from someone else," Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-Calif., commented.

If that sounds mercenary listen first to the rest of Lloyd's argument. While it isn't unique it is worth

"We have much better control (when we sell the weapons)," Lloyd continued. "If you buy an F-14 from us you have to do business with us, because you can't support it alone."

Lloyd went on to say we could probably stop a war in a few weeks, by simply refusing parts and expert maintenance.

Perhaps that is carrying it a little far, but Lloyd's main point would appear to be accurate - "we have much better control.'

There is no doubt bickering nations are going to get weapons, whether from us, the Russians or elsewhere.
Isn't it better that we at least have a point of pressure on those people? Isn't a little bit of control better than no control at all? It would be grand if we could spend the money elsewhere, but can we risk the peace we have for a greater peace we're not even sure exists?

Dr. Miller Maybe he sees what you don't

DEAR DR. MILLER: Pembroke, our young adult cat, is seemingly normal in all respects except one. He's a hunter of flies. Especially on sunny days, he'll sit near the window and swat at them. I've seen other cats chase flies like this, too, except they were chasing real ones. Pembroke's flies are never there. He never gets a hold of any stuff that could cause him to hallucinate. I go sort of buggy myself sometimes, just watching him. Why do you think he acts this way? - E.D.

DEAR E.D.: In the embryonic eye, the hyaline artery nourishes the back interior half of the eyeball. Eventually this artery is absorbed. Occasionally, however, tiny fragments of this vessel remain in the vitreous fluid (the heavy fluid within the eye). These particles float about unseen unless bright light strikes then at just the right angle. Then they are visible to the cat (horse, human, or whoever . . . ) who may, for want of a better explanation, consider them flies flitting about. Pembroke's peculiar swatting sessions could be caused by this visual defect.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My new canary, Snowflake, is a pure white albino, pink eyes and all. He's such a pretty little fellow, but I wonder if he's doomed to a shorter life than an ordinary canary would be because of his color? -

DEAR K.S.: Snowflake's whiteness would make him more conspicuous and thus likely to have a shorter lifespan in nature. In a caged bird's happy home environment, however, this is no handicap, so your canary could conceivably carry on for a long time.

The 3,000-mile trip was hard on her. Grace is 73. I nearly passed out when I saw that she was grossly overweight, on crutches, and wearing a hearing aid that didn't work. She couldn't hear one word I said.

We just stared at one another. Her first words were, "Your hair is grey - and you are much heavier than I thought you'd be!" Both of us sat down and cried our eyes out. ## L.M. Boyd Appropriate for sponsors

Why don't those big companies that advertise on television sponsor more appropriate shows? The Otis Elevator Co., for instance, should buy time to put on the movie "Shaft". Arthur Murray Dance Studios, "Last Tango in Paris." That's not my idea. It's the suggestion of advertising man Sanford Teller. Any others?

Unobtainable reserve

Oil shale in the United States may hold 40 gallons of petroleum to a ton of rock but no one yet knows how to extract it economically or without ruining thousands of square miles of the western U.S. by strip min-ing. The oil shale holds many times the known American oil reserves of 45.4 billion barrels.

G.D. defense gun system installed aboard destroyer

The Phalanx close-in ship defense gun system developed by General Dynamics plant in Pomona has been installed aboard the destroyer USS Bigelow for operational testing by U.S. Navy personnel.

The tests by Navy personnel will be conducted on the Atlantic Fleet Weapons Range in realistic at-sea tactical situations. These will determine the system's maintainability and reliability, and evaluate its readiness for pilot line production.

The new system's major technical achievement is a closed-loop spotting ability in which it simultaneously measures both the target location and bullet location, and then corrects any difference to zero. In this way, Phalanx automatically directs the stream of bullets onto the target throughout the firing burst.

The Phalanx's autonomous, above deck modular design incorporates its own search, detection, target acquisition and tracking, and firing capabilities. It can react in seconds to accurately fire its 20mm Gatling gun at a rate of 3,000 rounds per

"The proven quick reaction autonomous capacity of the Phalanx makes it vital to the fleet as a lastditch defense system against enemy threats," said John E. McSweeny, General Dynamics Pomona vice president and Phalanx program director.

The preproduction Phalanx system installed aboard the Bigelow was built at the Pomona plant by manufacturing employes using production methods. This not only tests transition from engineering to manufacture, it also gives the Navy an early opportunity to realistically test the manufacturing reliability of 'This Phalanx was built in the factory, tested by engineering personnel, and delivered to the Navy on schedule," McSweeny said.

Since the first contracts were awarded in 1969, Phalanx has successfully completed tests of its feasibility and engineering development, and proved its performance in a separate tactical missile test

The TMT was conducted by remote control with the Phalanx installed aboard the decommissioned destroyer USS Cunningham. There, Phalanx demonstrated its lethality by destroying both subsonic and supersonic maneuvering drones which made diving and level attacks, and targets approaching from ex-tremely low levels. Targets destroyed included a Walleye glide

The new system, which weighs only 11,000 pounds, can be installed either as a single unit on small patrol boats or in multitudes for defense of larger ships like aircraft carriers.

General Dynamics Pomona Division is a developer and producer of tactical missiles and tactical weapons systems for the U.S. armed forces and those of allied nations. Its products include the Standard Missile-1, Standard Missile-2, Sparrow, and Standard ARM Missiles and the Redeye, Stinger, and Viper man-portable air and armor fense system, developed for the

Dr. Wong noted that for the past nine years, the Rowland district has had a dental screening program. "During that time, the number of ups for the mobile unit.

There's more to choosing a low-tar cigarette than just picking a number.

Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."

As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar buildup flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback." All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.

Central district makes agreement with bus company

By DAVID READER

PB Correspondent
The board of trustees of Cucamonga's Central School district approved this week an agreement with Palomar Transportation Co. to bus 120 students at Central Elementary School for the remainder of the school year.

Supt. Don Sperry said that because of the double session schedule and the fact that district's new 79 passenger bus that was due to arrive in April but because of the weather situation in the eastern United States will not be shipped until July, made it necessary to seek an alternate means of getting students to and from school.

The agreement with Palomar calls for them to provide two buses for a two-hour period at midday at a cost to the district of $6,300 for the final 90 school days.

Sperry said that another bus in addition to the one already bought may have to be purchased by the district for next year if needed to handle the transportation

Another alternative, he said, would be to notify parents that their children would be required to walk to school if they live within walking distance.

Sperry informed the board that Ann O'Neill, teacher at Valle Vista school, and Doris Garretson, teacher at Central school, were hired to fill the newly created posts of teacher-vice principal at their respective schools. In other action, the board approved the allocation of $310 for two district school bus drivers to attend a state school transportation conference in Oakland. The money will cover air fare, lodgings, and food during the threeday meeting in April.

The Freddie Prinze story; his boyhood years

EDITOR'S NOTE: Shouting out "Lookin" G-o-o-d" was one of Freddie Prinze's favorite ways of getting laughs. It always worked. But apparently it didn't work for him personally. The 22year-old star of TV's "Chico and the Man"a man for whom everything seemed to "Lookin' G-0-0-0d"-shot himself to death last week. The following is the first of two articles on Freddie Prinze's life and focuses on his youth in neighborhood.

NEW YORK (AP) - As a little boy he liked to scare people by pretending he was Frankenstein's monster. As a little boy he threw wet tissues from the roof of his apartment building.

He was quite a cutup, that Freddie Prinze, that kid who came from nowhere to become the hip, wisecracking Chicano on television's "Chico and the

But as a youngster, the late television star and humorist could also be gentle and quietly reflective, his childhood friends say. He had highs and lows and liked to be the center of attention. But most of all, he wanted to make people laugh.

The suicide of the 22year-old comic last week stunned those who knew him in the Washington Heights neighborhood where he grew up. He hated violence, they say. He had a lot of love, they say. How could he shoot himself?

"The only time I've ever seen him depressed was when his uncle died," said Luis Calderon, a 22-yearold store clerk who was Prinze's best friend for over 10 years. "His uncle used to take us to play basketball.

"Freddie was a pretty quiet guy. The only time he spoke was to make someone laugh.

Calderon and other friends remember Prinze as the pudgy little kid who liked to play stickball and marbles, who liked to go to the roof and throw wet tises down to the sidewalk; who liked to play war games; or play his drums for hours on end; or pretend he was a disc jockey; or do imitations of President Nixon and Vice President Rockefeller.

He lived with his mother and father, a tool and dyemaker and auto mechanic, in an eightroom apartment on West 157th Street. Although a predominantly Latin area, this lower-middle-class neighborhood is still multiethnic. It's a poor neighborhood, but fairly stable and not an outright Prinze, an only child, came from a mixed background. Karl Prinze, his father, is part gypsy and part Hungarian Jew. His last name was orginally "Prutzel" but he changed it. Maria, Freddie's mother, is Puerto Rican. Freddie would jokingly call himself a "Hun-

"His parents gave him everything he ever wanted," Calderon said. "They gave him a lot of love, especially his mother. She really loved him a lot."

Maria Prinze loved her son so much, adds Warren Lee, a close family friend, that she didn't want to work. She wanted to stay home to take care of Fred-

"The mother always looked out for Freddie,' Lee said. "There was very strong love there.'

Freddie went to neighborhood public grade schools and later entered a Catholic school nearby.

Like many old New York neighborhoods, the part of Washington Heights where the Prinzes lived has seen better days. Trash, scattered by the wind and by people, litters the streets. A now treeless island with splintering benches in the middle of Broadway is all that's left of the pretty little park where Freddie sat with his mother as a child.

'That's where we first met," recalled Calderon. "I was sitting with my grandmother and cousin. Freddie was there with his mother. He was making believe he was Frankenstein and started scaring my cousin.

Even at seven," Calderon said, "Freddie was funny.

Freddie's building, where his parents lived until two years ago, is across the street from the Happy Hills Casino, Juana's beauty salon and La Amistad, a Latin social

"He was quiet in a way," said Dorinda Davis, 13, Prinze's downstairs neighbor. "He didn't make a lot of noise in the building and had a lot of manners. He used to date my older sister.

Says another neighbor, 17-year-old Richard Barret: "He used to come down and play my guitar. He didn't talk much, but he wasn't that quiet. He used to try out jokes on me, but I didn't understand a lot of them.

The Prinzes lived on the sixth floor. Freddie kept a drum set in his room and a model of a deejay's console, which he constructed himself. A large German shepherd named King also occupied a place in the Prinze household.

But Freddie seldom walked the dog. He was too busy with his friends and his drumming. Freddie formed a rock band when he was a teenager.

We used to play a 'Man From Uncle' game over on the hill," said Calderon, pointing to the steep, icy Street. "We pretended we were in a war. One day, one of the guys picked up a rock to throw as a grenade.

Well, the rock hit a car and broke the windshield . . . He was scared and took off in a flash. He wouldn't come out again for a week.

Adds another former playmate, Chico Sagain, 21: "I thought he was a gentle guy and afraid of violence. He was the goofing around type.

No one knew this better than Herb Rubin, owner of Hornstein's Stationery, the neighborhood variety store on Broadway. When Freddie was about 13, Rubin had to constantly chase the youngster from the store because all he wanted to do was read Playboy magazine.

Hornstein's was a sort of hangout for Freddie and his friends. It was there that Freddie later tried out his jokes. He even showed the boys how to do pirouettes when he studied ballet at the High School of Performing Arts.

"He was a pleasant little fellow," Rubin said. Sometimes he'd get quiet. He'd be shouting, and then he'd get very quiet." Prinze's high school drama teacher, Jerome Eskow, chairman of the drama department at Performing Arts, also spoke of character. the comic's moodiness.

"Freddie would have lows. Freddie would have highs," Eskow said. "He was basically a high kid. He liked to be on. He liked to be the center of attraction. Anyone who sells hard, comes down hard all the time.

"He was a very outgoing kid. Kind of a collector of girls. But in class he was deadly serious. Freddie always fascinated me because he had the reputation of a cutup."

While in high school, Prinze developed his com-edy routines at Manhattan bistros such as the Improvisation and Catch a Rising Star. He never graduated from high school because of incomplete academic credits. After leaving school Prinze continued to be a frequent attraction without pay - at the two

In his junior acting class, Prinze did a scene from Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park." He played a telephone repairman.

"He ... hit upon the idea of making it a Puerto Rican repairman," Eskow said. "It made the character hysterical. It was so funny and went so well that when he shifted

Girl, 13, grieving over Prinze's death, takes her own life

Years

GLENDALE (AP)—A 13-year-old La Crescenta girl has killed herself in a fit of depression over the suicide of comedian Freddie Prinze, police said.

Lynn Barillier died at Verdugo Hills Hospital late Tuesday after shooting herself in the head a day earlier with her father's .38-caliber revolver, said police spokesman

The girl left a suicide note citing the deaths of Prinze, a family friend identified only as Barney, her cat and her dog as "reasons why I really can't go on."

"I would like to be buried next to or as close as possible to Freddie Prinze, my favorite actor, in Forest Lawn, police said her note stated.

Her death follows by two days the suicide of a 20-yearold Bay City, Mich., prisoner in his jail cell. David F. Warren left a note which said, "If Freddie Prinze can do it so can I. He couldn't take it any more and I can't take it Warren had been booked for investigation of being drunk and disorderly. He died from an overdose of pills, Bay County Sheriff Robert Wood said.

Prinze's wife, dad excluded from will

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Comedian Freddie Prinze excluded his estranged wife and his father from his will and left his estate to his mother and 10-month-old son, according to his will filed for probate in Superior Court. Prinze, 22, star of television's "Chico and the Man," lied Saturday after shooting himself in the head early last Friday at his apartment. The will filed Monday leaves 75 per cent of the estate to his mother, Mary Pruetzel of Van Nuys, and 25 per cent in a trust fund to his son, Freddie Prinze Jr. It estimates the estate at "more than" $80,000 in real and personal property

The will was signed Dec. 21, eight days after Prinze's wife, Katherine, 26, filed to end their 15-month marriage. She was not included in the estate, nor was his father, Karl Pruetzel, who lives in Van Nuys with the late entertainer's mother.

Attorney Arnold Kassoy filed the will for probate. It names David A. Brown and Marvin Snyder as executors.

"I go to high school games every night except Sunday," the per-sonable assistant said. "I would say I have been to more than 100 games since the season started.

It must be added the only reason Sunday is a day off is because of no games scheduled on the Sabbath.

Van Winkle said his heavy load of games is helping his diet. "I have lost seven pounds since the season started. I don't have time to eat so I usually pick up a hot dog and Coke at the concession stands.

How does his wife, Connie, appreciate all this especially since she is expecting the couple's third child in April?

She's been through this so long she is used to it," he said. "I always leave her the phone number of the gym I'm at in case the baby arrives early.

Van Winkle also scouts in the midwest as evidenced by the present Poly roster listing players from Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Louisiana.

He spent two weeks during the Christmas break in Chicago at a big tournament but the rough winter brought him back and he's delighted with the prep talent in the area.

Best group of seniors

"In my four years at Cal Poly, I would have to say this is best group of seniors," he said. "There are a lot of good players available.

Los Angeles schools. Most of his contacts have been in an area ranging from Downey to Vic-

Since Poly has so many players returning next season, Van Winkle's main target this season are high school seniors rather than junior college transfers.

"They are all good students and are the type you would enjoy having in your program as people, not just as players," he said.

Victor Valley's Tony Anderson, who was the Most Valuable Player at the San Dimas Tournament of Champions seeded division, is one of Van Winkle's chief targets.

After watching several of Victor Valley's games, Van Winkle took his boss, head coach Don Hogan, to Victorville Tuesday night so the Broncos' mentor could display his charm. Many coaches hate recruiting but not Van Winkle. "The driving gets old after awhile but I really do enjoy watching various teams," he explains.

Van Winkle hopes at least two or three of the better players end up in Pomona but Poly isn't even in the running for Duffy.

The Damien senior has indicated his top three preferences are Notre Dame, Minnesota and Oregon.

It's easy to see Duffy has a national reputation.

Knox says no?

DETROIT (AP) - Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox has turned down a bid from the Detroit Lions of the National Football League and will stay with the Rams, according to a Detroit newspaper.

The Detroit News today quoted "high level pro football sources" as saying Knox had decided to stay in Los Angeles. The newspaper said Knox was scheduled to make an announcement of his withdrawal soon, perhaps today.

However, the News quoted another source as saying Knox still wished to join the Lions if a compensation arrangement could be worked out. The source told the News negotiations had reached an impasse between Carroll Rosenbloom, the Rams' owner, and William Clay Ford, owner of the Lions.

Ford reportedly has been trying to work out a deal with Rosenbloom that would send Knox to Detroit in exchange for several Lions players.

Knox still has four years left on his coaching contract with the Rams. Los Angeles hired Knox four years ago when he was an assistant under the Lions' coach at the time, Joe Schmidt.

The News reported that the Rams scoffed at the first list of players offered by the Lions as compensation for Knox and some Los Angeles

The Rams regarded the Lions list as not worth the players Los Angeles had mentioned with Knox included, the newspaper said. The News said Ford was reportedly sweetening the offer with a second presentation.

The Lions are looking for a replacement for interim coach Tommy Hudspeth, who took over early last season following the resignation of Rick Forzano.

Pacific-8 lead on line tonight

By The Associated Press The two hottest teams in the Pacific-8 square off tonight with the conference lead at stake

Both UCLA and Washington have won 13 of their last 14 games, and both bring 41 Pac-8 marks into the showdown in the Bruins' Pauley

Each suffered its lone conference loss at the hands of Oregon, which has a 3-2 Pac-8 record.

Progress Bulletin

Pomona, California Thursday, February 3, 1977

Coach Gene Bartow has said that his Bruins are running in top gear. and Washington, which has had little luck in its last visits to Los Angeles to play UCLA, probably isn't happy

The Huskies last beat the Bruins in Los Angeles back in 1952. That's a quarter century ago.

Bartow, after watching his Bruins destroy Tennessee 103-89 last Sunday, pronounced them finally at the top of their game after earlier losses to Notre Dame and Oregon.

But the Huskies have momentum for them, too.

With center James Edwards leading them, the Huskies have lost but one after dropping their first four games of the season.

Bartow predicts a rugged game against the Huskies, who play a physical, demanding brand of basketball. "Washington is a fine team, playing very well at present," he said.

"And I think we're ready to go. While Washington and UCLA battle for the Pac-8 lead, Washington State tries to keep its conference hopes alive against Southern California. The Cougars have a 3-2 Pac-8 mark and are 14-4 overall.

The Trojans will be playing for little but pride when they host WSU. USC, 0-5 in the Pac-8 and 4-13 in all games, hasn't won a conference game in 20 outings stretching over three seasons.

The four other Pac-8 teams do not play until Friday night, with California and Stanford, both with 1-3 Pac-8 records, visiting Oregon.

Cal, 6-11 overall, meets Oregon State, 3-2 and 1-9, Friday. Stanford, 9-8 in all games, plays Oregon, which has a 12-6 overall mark.

In Pacific Coast Athletic Association games tonight, Long Beach State is at Pacific and Fresno State is at San Jose State.

In a non-conference game, UC Santa Barbara visits Air Force.

There are no West Coast Athletic Conference games scheduled tonight, but Friday's slate includes St. Mary's at top-ranked San Francisco, Seattle at Loyola, Portland at Pepperdine and Nevada-Reno at Santa Clara.

When Wooden retired and UCLA got a new coach last season, the Trojans' prospects seemed bright for ending the Bruins' lengthy dominance of the Pac-8.

Robert Turner Athlete of Week

Robert Turner, Calvary Baptist High's basketball center, has been named the Progress Bulletin's Athlete of the week

Turner, a 6-foot-2 sophomore who lives in Pomona, turned in an incredible performance in the Cougars' 93-37 win over Woodcrest last Thursday: he scored 51 points and pulled down 35 rebounds against the outmanned Royals.

That rebound total was just short of the CIF single-game record of 38 (which, incidently, Turner shattered when he grabbed 47 rebounds Tuesday against Victor Valley Christian). In Calvary Baptist's other game last week, against American Christian, Turner threw in 30 points and caught 35 rebounds. That gave the incredible sophomore 81 points and 70 rebounds for the week. He made 39 of 68 field goal attempts (57 per cent) and three of eight foul shots and blocked six

NEW YORK (AP) - Veteran Harold Weston used aggressivene and took advantage of Wilfredo Benitez' showboating tactics to gain 10-round draw in their welterweight fight Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

But the hero with the crowd of about 10,000 was Emile Griffith, who opened his 19th year as a pro fighter by pounding out a majority 10-round decision over Christy Elliott. The victory for the former five-time welterweight and middleweight champion came on the eve of his 39th

Judges Al Reid and Harold

Lederman both scored it five rounds and five supplementary points for each fighter. Referee Johnny LoBianco gave it to Benitez, seven rounds to three. However, a fighter must get the nod of two officials in order to be awarded a victory.

The AP scored it 6-4 for Benitez. Benitez, 144% pounds, of Puerto Rico, ripped a cut over Weston's eyebrow in the sixth round and seemed to be in control of the fight on the strength of harder and crunching punches, especially to the

But then he began talking and motioning to Weston and to the crowd. Weston, 146, of New York, meanwhile paid attention to business and his aggressiveness pulled out the last three rounds to earn him the draw. His record now is 20-6-4. Griffith, 161, of New York, used a

Walnut clicks

By MIKE BROSSART

PB Staff Writer Walnut High coach Bill Murray couldn't suppress a wide grin after his basketball team rolled to a 75-49 win at Bonita Wednesday afternoon.

"We're really playing great defense," he said. We're hustling and we're moving the ball. I'm really pleased with these guys.

Another thing the Mustangs do quite well is shoot. Wednesday they made 30 of 54 field goal attempts for a 55.6 per cent

Bonita's Bearcats, on the other hand, largely because Walnut's zone defense kept them shooting from outside their range, hit just 18 of 56 shots from the floor (32 per cent).

Walnut (8-1 in Hacienda League play, 13-7 on the year) stayed one game back of league-leader Alta Loma and put more space between itself and thirdplace Gladstone (5-4, 5-12), which suffered a 78-69 loss to Royal Oak Wednesday.

Doug Vind led the Mustangs with 14 points despite being shut out in the first and fourth quarters. Teammates Jeff Davis and Andre Edwards scored 12 points apiece and Pat Flaherty added 11. Flaherty also came up with seven steals, including four in the first quarter when the visitors jumped to a 17-6 lead Bonita's Keith Knight led the game's scorers with 20 points and Mike Boyd added 15, but Keith Brandt's six points was third-high for the Bearcats (3-6, 4-14).

Ball-handling problems undid Bonita in the early going. Walnut, pressing from the outset, caused eight Bonita turnovers in the first quarter and 22 in the game. Walnut committed 17 turnovers, but eight of them came in the fourth quarter when the lineup was sprinkled with substitutes.

Walnut built its lead to 20 points (28-8) midway through the second quarter. Its biggest lead with the final 26-point margin.

Brandt led all rebounders with 15 and Edwards had 13.

Davis' six points in the first quarter helped his Braves capture a 14-6 after eight minutes.

San Dimas' first half success was due mainly to good outside shooting The Saints connected on 10-of-23 attempts from the floor.

The six-foot-10 center led all scorers with 20 points. Davis also grabbed six rebounds and blocked six Saint shots.

Anderson scored 17 points and led all rebounders with seven caroms all of which came in the first half. Vern Cofield was the only Saint to reach double-figures with 12 markers.

Series film is available

LOS ANGELES - "Red October," a 29-minute action-packed highlight film, is the story of the 1976 World Series, in which the National League's Cincinnati Reds won the World Championship by sweeping the American League's New York Yankees in four straight games. The film, produced by Major League Baseball Films, is narrated by Joe Garagiola and features the use of wireless "sync-sound" microphones, high speed cameras and a 600 millimeter lens to dramatize close-up action. This year's film starts with Joe

Morgan's first inning bome run in Game One and moves to a conclusion that compares the Reds with some of baseball's greatest teams, using some old film clips for comparison. This year's World Series film can be reserved on a 24-hour loan basis by calling the Los Angeles Dodgers' publicity office at (213) 224-1301. There is no charge for the use of the film, but it must be picked up on the day of the showing and returned the following morning. The Dodger film library also has past World Series, All-Star game and instructional films which are available to groups, charities, clubs and organizations.

Kicking around

With Adrian Mercado and Willy Keo

WHILE MOST OF THE NATION SHIVERED UNDER A BLANKET OF ICE AND SNOW, 700 soccer enthusiasts soaked up the balmy sunshine at MSAC for soccer action ranging from the hilarious antics of Ginger, the soccerplaying dog, to a finale featuring two semi-pro teams. In the first Cities United, coached by Frits Rosenveldt, blanked the San Bernardino All-Stars 3-0.

The second game proved to be a crowd igniter as the AYSO Diamond Bar Superdads and the Hacienda Heights Soccer Dads see-sawed to a 2-2 deadlock under the watchful eyes of referees Nancy Kent and Sandy Barnes.

The final event matched two semi-pro clubs from the Latin American Soccer League, the Club Mexico and Neonex-Independencia. Although the affair was a loopsided 5-0 affair behind the sharpshooting of Neonex's three goaler German Carranza and a double by Rudy Ortega, it was hotly contested and pleased everyone.

KICKIN' AROUND was on the mike for this event sponsored by the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA as a fund raiser for their new building. The ASL's new franchise, the California Sunshine, donated 16 season passes for their Santa Ana Bowl games this year.

POMONA AYSO WILL HOLD its annual general meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Emerson Junior High cafeteria to elect new officers for next season. Eleven positions are up for grabs and we suggest that our readers in Pomona flock to the meeting and do their share for the program that has brought so much satisfaction to youngsters and adults alike.

CLAREMONT AYSO, will be tripping the light fantastic next Friday when it holds its annual soccer dance at Griswold's Pavilion starting at 9:00 p.m.

The fancy steppers will have to get up early Saturday to attend Claremont AYSO's Soccer Day at Pomona College's Alumni Field at 10 a.m.

AYSO HAS ANNOUNCED THAT three AYSO soccer summer camp sites have been established for 1977 — Two Rivers Mountain Camp, Desert Sun Mountain Camp and Westmont College Camp.

Two Rivers and Desert Sun feature, in addition to soccer, an exciting program of other activities such as hiking and campfires. Westmont College is dedicated to a complete emphasis on soccer. All three camps are under the supervision of experienced camp directors and outstanding coaches and counselors of adult and college age.

Two Rivers is located north of Lake Tahoe on Feather River, Desert Sun Mountain Camp is in the San Jacinto mountains, and Westmont College is in the hills above Santa Barbara. For additional information write to: AYSO Soccer Summer Camps, 111 South Oak Street, Inglewood, Calif. 90301.

THE U.S. OPEN CUP COMPETITION began last Sunday in San Pedro as Croatia downed Los Angeles 2-1 and the Maccabees blanked the L.A. Gauchos 3-0 in single elimination matches.

This Sunday's Open cup games at Daniels Field, San Pedro, pits Alitalia of Van Nuys against the United Armenians with the winner slated to meet Croatia in district semi-finals; the 12:30 p.m. game will be played to a finish with overtime periods if necessary.

At 2:30 p.m. the defending Greater Los Angeles Soccer League champion, South Bay United will clash with the Homenetmen with the survivor facing the Maccabbes in the other semi-final Feb. 13.

THANKS TO DAMIEN AND CLAREMONT our SAL is holding its head high in CIF rankings at the end of January's games. Al Mistri's Spartans are the top-rated SAL school as ranked by the coaches with a seventh ranked listing and Bill Vaskis' Wolfpack presses tightly into the eighth spot among the top 10.

The only other SAL teams are Chino in 18th, and Garey in 19th places among 4A schools, yet Chino is second to Damien in league play.

Chaffey still tops the 3A schools as number one despite Palm Springs' leadership in the same Ivy League with Chaffey. The desert spa team has scored a walloping 35 goals to Chaffey's 19 while both have been stingy with opposing forwards, each allowing but two goals.

Within the SAL Damien's 14 points is a game better than Chino's 12; Claremont is but a half-game off Chino with 11; Garey fourth with 10; Ganesha and Montclair stand tied for fifth with 6 each; Upland seventh with 4, and Pomona gracing the basement with one point.

Claremont's win over Damien last week by 1-0 put the first defeat on the Mistri-men but Damien's 23 goals scored and seven against tells the story. On paper Claremont's defense with only five against is backing an offense that has scored only eight.

Garey has scored 23 . . . as many as leaders Damien . . but the Garey defense has allowed 13. Ganesha's defenders have only permitted eight . . . better than second place Chino . . . yet the Giants from west Pomona are equal with Upland in scoring only five goals, but Upland gave up 19.

Tied for fifth place, Ganesha and Montclair present wildly opposite records; Ganesha scoring only five times to Montclair's 16, but Ganesha's backs and goalie were beaten eight times compared to 21 goals leaking thru the Montclair defense

Damien (first place) and Garey (fourth) are heaviest in scoring with 23 goals apiece but Damien's seven against tells the story when compared with Garey's 13 against. Upland and Pomona are still on the scent for their first victory with Upland's four ties giving them a game and a half advantage over cellar-dwellers Pomona.

The season is halfway gone after eight games and much could happen to change the standings. The SAL goes into action on Wednesdays and Fridays, and will throw in a game this Monday in order to establish the qualifiers who will go into CIF playoffs on Feb. 25. Get out and root for your fans. Most of the games are right after school hours but a few are under lights. Watch the sport page for par-

It was with good feeling we observed Al Mistri's move in putting Ricky Garcia on the varsity squad last week. Ricky is a younger brother of Ganesha's speedy back, Tony Garcia, and Ricky may be going against big brother when the giants visit the Spartans on Feb. 7.

Mistri's faith was bolstered when Ricky accounted for two goals in his first team debut. Scoring has been a habit for Ricky all thru his days of learning the game with Pomona AYSO teams where his Dad, Tony Garcia Sr., has dedicated his coaching talents to more than one championship team. Tony Jr. was a defender on titlewinning AYSO clubs, too.
